The amount of capital invested in non-enumerated manufactures in the city of Cincinnati appears extravagant, and more especially so from the marshal's return of $4,443,312. The numbers of the marshal are given, but it appears from a publication of Charles Cist, who took the census of Cincinnati, that the value of manufactures amounts to $17,432,670.

NOTE.—The abstracts of the Census for 1790, 1800, 1810, and 1820, are made from the revision of those Census's made and printed under authority of Congress in the year 1830. In that revision, the errors in the original returns do not appear to have been corrected. This will account for any discrepancies which may be found.
